

Continuing MBS Telehealth Services

GPs and Other Medical Practitioners

Last updated: 15 December 2021

- MBS telehealth introduced on a temporary basis in response to the COVID-19 pandemic will now be permanent. Telehealth services provided by GPs, medical practitioners, nurse practitioners, participating midwives, allied health providers and dental practitioners in the practice of oral and maxillofacial surgery services will continue.
- It remains a legislative requirement that GPs and Other Medical Practitioners (OMPs) working in general practice can only perform a telehealth service where they have an established clinical relationship with the patient, with limited exemptions.
- A service may only be provided by telehealth where it is safe and clinically appropriate to do so.
- Bulk billed GP and OMP COVID-19 telehealth services are eligible for incentive payments when provided to Commonwealth concession card holders and children under 16 years of age.
- All providers are expected to obtain informed financial consent from patients prior to charging private fees for telehealth services.

Why are the changes being made?

- From 1 January 2022 the COVID-19 GP and OMP telehealth arrangements introduced 1 July 2021, including short and longer telephone items, will continue to be available with the following changes:
 - A new extended telephone consultation item for attendances 20 minutes or longer for patients in rural and remote communities (Modified Monash 6 and 7 regions) will be introduced.
 - The COVID-19 GP 'hotspot' telephone items for consultations longer than 20 minutes will cease.
 - Patients who are subject to COVID-19 public health orders requiring isolation or quarantine will continue to have unrestricted access to MBS telehealth services, without needing to demonstrate an established clinical relationship with their telehealth provider.
 - Specific GP nicotine and smoking cessation services including telehealth will be extended to 31 December 2023. GP sexual and reproductive health services and non-directive pregnancy support counselling will be extended to 30 June 2023. These services do not require an established clinical relationship when provided by telehealth.
 - MBS telehealth items will be included in the calculation of Practice Incentives Program (PIP) and the Workforce Incentive Program - Practice Stream (WIP) payments.

- Medicare compliance rules will be updated to include telephone and video services in the prescribed pattern of practice (the 80/20 rule), with a new '30/20' rule for GP telephone services.
- Superseded pre-COVID telehealth and associated items will be removed from the MBS to avoid multiple different MBS items for the same service. This includes GP and OMP mental health consultations and general attendances by video. GP and OMP patient-end support items linked to pre-COVID medical specialist and consultant physician telehealth services will also be removed from 1 January 2021.
- Nurse practitioner, midwifery, nursing and other allied health telehealth consultations will continue without change, with the exception of patient-end support services by nurse practitioners and midwives linked to pre-COVID medical specialist and consultant physician.

Who is eligible?

The MBS telehealth items are available to providers of telehealth services for a wide range of consultations. All Medicare eligible Australians can receive these services if they have an established clinical relationship with a GP, OMP, or a medical practice. This requirement supports longitudinal and person-centred primary health care that is associated with better health outcomes.

An established relationship means the medical practitioner performing the service:

- has provided at least one face-to-face service to the patient in the 12 months preceding the telehealth attendance; or
- is located at a medical practice where the patient has had at least one face-to-face service arranged by that practice in the 12 months preceding the telehealth attendance (including services performed by another doctor located at the practice, or a service performed by another health professional located at the practice, such as a practice nurse or Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health worker); or
- is a participant in the Approved Medical Deputising Service program, and the Approved Medical Deputising Service provider employing the medical practitioner has a formal agreement with a medical practice that has provided at least one face-to-face service to the patient in the 12 months preceding the telehealth attendance.
- The established relationship requirement is a rolling requirement applying to every telehealth consultation. For each telehealth consultation, the patient must meet one of the eligibility requirements outline above, unless one of the following exemptions applies.

The established relationship requirement does not apply to:

- children under the age of 12 months;
- people who are homeless;
- patients receiving an urgent after-hours (unsociable hours) service; or
- patients of medical practitioners at an Aboriginal Medical Service or an Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Service; or
- people who are in a COVID-19 Commonwealth declared hotspot, until 31 December 2021; or
- people isolating because of a COVID-related State or Territory public health order, or in COVID-19 quarantine because of a State or Territory public health order.

AND patients accessing specific MBS items for:

- blood borne viruses, sexual or reproductive health consultations; and
- pregnancy counselling services;
- mental health services; and
- nicotine and smoking cessation counselling.

A patient's participation in a previous telehealth consultation does not constitute a face-to-face service for the purposes of ongoing telehealth eligibility. New patients of a practice and regular patients who have not attended the practice face to face in the preceding 12 months must have a face-to-face attendance if they do not satisfy the above exemptions. Subsequent services may be provided by telehealth, if safe and clinically appropriate to do so.

Practitioners should confirm that patients have received an eligible face-to-face attendance in the preceding 12 months, or meet one or more of the relevant exemption criteria for the service, prior to providing a telehealth attendance. Failure to meet the established relationship requirement may result in incorrect claiming.

What telehealth options are available?

Videoconference services are the preferred approach for substituting a face-to-face consultation. However, providers can also offer audio-only services via telephone where clinically appropriate. There are separate items available for the audio-only services.

No specific equipment is required to provide Medicare-compliant telehealth services. Practitioners must ensure that their chosen telecommunications solution meets their clinical requirements and satisfies privacy laws. To assist providers with their privacy obligations, a privacy checklist for telehealth services has been made available on MBSOnline:

<http://www.mbsonline.gov.au/internet/mbsonline/publishing.nsf/Content/Factsheet-TelehealthPrivChecklist>. Further information can be found on the Australian Cyber Security Centre website.

What does this mean for providers?

The MBS telehealth items allow providers to deliver essential health care services to their patients while ensuring continued quality is provided by a medical practitioner who knows the patient's medical history.

Providers do not need to be in their regular practice to provide telehealth services, but they must ensure that the established clinical relationship, as defined in the MBS, exists before providing telehealth services to their patient. Providers should use their provider number for their primary location, and must provide safe services in accordance with normal professional standards.

The MBS telehealth items have the same clinical requirements as the corresponding face-to-face consultation items. As Medicare regulations are progressively updated, telehealth items will list a rebate that is 100% of the equivalent face-to-face fee.

Telehealth services will now contribute to Standardised Whole Patient Equivalent (SWPE) calculations which determine the value of PIP and WIP payments. Including telehealth into the SWPE ensures that payments that support quality improvement activities and subsidies for allied health workers reflect contemporary practice.

To date, a range of audit and education activities have safeguarded appropriate billing of MBS claims. To further support the integrity of the Medicare program the existing prescribed pattern of practice (80/20 rule) will now apply to all GP consultation types from 1 January 2022. Any GP who provides more than a combined 80 services by face-to-face, video or telephone on 20 or more days in a 12 month period will be referred to the Professional Services Review (PSR).

In addition, a new 30/20 rule will be introduced for telephone consultations from 1 January 2022. Any GP or consultant physicians who provides more than 30 telephone consultations on 20 or more days in a 12 month period will be referred to the PSR.

How will these changes affect patients?

Patients will continue to have access to MBS telehealth services, noting that the current eligibility requirements for these services will continue from 1 January 2022.

A change to the range of GP telehealth services from 1 January 2022 will mean that higher MBS rebates are available for telephone consultations lasting 20 minutes or more for eligible patients in remote and very remote regions (Modified Monash 6 and 7).

Patients in designated COVID-19 'hotspot' areas will have normal eligibility requirements for telehealth services from 1 January 2022. This means patients must have an established clinical relationship unless they satisfy criteria for an exemption to this requirement, or are accessing specific services that are exempt from this requirement.

Patient-end support services by GPs and OMPs linked to pre-COVID specialist video consultations in regional and remote areas will be removed from 1 January 2022. However, optometry, practice nurse and Aboriginal health worker patient-end support items will be retained. Other MBS items continue to support multidisciplinary care and case-conferences with specific items for GP, specialists and allied health providers, where appropriate.

Who was consulted on the changes?

Consultation with stakeholders has informed the introduction and refinement of MBS telehealth items. The transition to permanent arrangements has also been informed by medical experts and key stakeholders within the health sector.

How will the changes be monitored and reviewed?

The Department of Health continues to monitor the use of the new MBS items. Use of the items that does not seem to be in accordance with Medicare guidelines and legislation will be actioned appropriately.

Where can I find more information?

The full item descriptors and information on other changes to the MBS can be found on the MBS Online website at www.mbsonline.gov.au. You can also subscribe to future MBS updates by visiting MBS Online and clicking 'Subscribe'.

The Department of Health provides an email advice service for providers seeking advice on interpretation of the MBS items and rules and the Health Insurance Act and associated regulations. If you have a query relating exclusively to interpretation of the Schedule, you should email askMBS@health.gov.au.

If you are seeking advice in relation to Medicare billing, claiming, payments, or obtaining a provider number, please go to the Health Professionals page on the Services Australia website or contact Services Australia on the Provider Enquiry Line – 13 21 50.

MBS changes factsheet

Please note that the information provided is a general guide only. It is ultimately the responsibility of treating practitioners to use their professional judgment to determine the most clinically appropriate services to provide, and then to ensure that any services billed to Medicare fully meet the eligibility requirements outlined in the legislation.

This sheet is current as of the Last updated date shown above, and does not account for MBS changes since that date.
